Municode acquires government website design firm, Aha Consulting

Municode is expanding into the web design space for local government with their acquisition of Aha Consulting.

Municode, the nation's most trusted municipal services provider, today announced the acquisition of Oregon-based government website content management provider, Aha Consulting, Inc.

Aha, founded in 2008, partners with local governments to design stunning, innovative websites that are easy for citizens to navigate and simple for staff to maintain. Aha's mission is to help municipalities improve their image, increase citizen self-service, and reduce incoming calls to staff. Aha's keys to success are a commitment to service, integrity, innovation and a sincere desire to help make the lives of their clients easier.

"Municode is excited to bring Aha into our family of municipal solutions. The team at Aha shares Municode's commitment to unparalleled customer service and our vision of creating a suite of solutions for our clients that will work together to make their processes more efficient and the myriad of tasks they have to accomplish simpler," said Eric Grant, Municode President. "By bringing Aha into the Municode team, we will now be able to offer our 4,100 municipal clients products that simply can't be replicated by anyone else. We will be able to provide our clients with a truly integrated solution that brings all of their online content together into one, easy-to-use platform. Codes of ordinances, zoning codes, meeting agendas, minutes, 311 systems, online payment portals, GIS maps, bid management processes, forms, permits, applications and municipal calendars will be simply and efficiently integrated for staff and citizens. In addition, our municipal clients will continue to receive the best customer service available in the municipal services space."

"Aha could not be more excited to join Municode, an organization with a proven commitment to its customers for over 65 years," said Brian Gilday, Aha's Founder and President. "By joining forces, we will be able to offer our present and future customers a much greater level of integrated online solutions while maintaining our commitment to superior customer service."
